

CTF/SGD Returning Teacher Agreement

The following details the agreement between the teacher participants & Scalable Game Design (SGD) research team and Computational Thinking Foundation (CTF), regarding the benefits and responsibilities that the participants agree to by their involvement in the CS4HS Project.

The SGA/CTF team agrees to provide the returning teacher participants with:

- Free training for teachers working in the USA on the use of the SGD curriculum at a Summer Institute or individualized or online training outside of summer training institutes, including access to the newest lesson plan and curricular materials available
- Ongoing support throughout the school year to help with the implementation of the Scalable Game Design curriculum
- AgentSheets Inc. software for school and personal use at no cost for the duration of your participation with the research project. Free school software is only available to USA project teachers. Unfortunately, a stipend for implementing the curriculum in the classroom and collecting research data is not available to returning project teachers this year due to funding limitations.

In return for the above benefits, the teacher participants agree to:

- Utilize the curricular materials provided.
- Complete at least one classroom implementation of the curriculum. An implementation typically lasts from 2 weeks to a full semester.
- Allow members of the SGD/CTF team to observe class if requested.
- Communicate with other participants to share experiences, and provide insights through regular use of the SGD Wiki and the SGD Facebook pages.

Before Implementation Module Begins

- Make sure the Media Release forms for students are sent home in a timely manner to allow parents time to return them before the lesson starts
- Contact nadia@computationalthinkingfoundation.org to receive teacher level group accounts to AgentCubes Online
- Teach the games and simulations of your choice as defined by the SGA wiki teacher lesson plans

Send signed pages of the CTF Teacher Agreement, CTF Teacher Media Release form back to the SGD/CTF team via scan/email (nadia@computationalthinkingfoundation.org) or fax (303-530-3018)
